

NEW GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP

BurrillGreen

Value from Security

PICA and Burrill Green have joined forces to offer fully integrated, international, high-level consulting, training and recruitment services for the security industry. Burrill Green is headed by David Burrill, former Deputy Director Intelligence Corps and Chief of Staff Intelligence and Security Centre of the UK Armed Forces and former Head of Security of BAT Industries. David is a graduate of the prestigious Royal Military Academy Sandhurst, a former President of the International Security Management Association, the recipient of numerous security industry awards and accolades such as the Compass Award for visionary leadership, the ASIS European Leadership Award and Imbert Prize by the Association of Security Consultants. David was the first foreigner granted Alumni status of the US Overseas Security Advisory Council of the US Department of State and was a former co-chair of its British counterpart, SISBO. He was awarded an OBE for services to international security management and is also an emeritus member of the UK's Risk and Security Management Forum.

The core values of Burrill Green match nicely with PICA. "Best Security Practices can be a Competitive Asset. Security must Make Sense. Security must Count. Security must be accountable". PICA and Burrill Green will focus on ROI to its clients through recruiting and training of talent, ongoing support of security functions, access to global resources and cutting edge technology.
