

LINDSEY DEBORD, VICE PRESIDENT, PICA CORPORATION

Lindsey DeBord, former Senior Advisor for the U.S. Department of State and Investigator for the Department of Defense has returned to PICA as Vice President of the 37-year-old security consulting and risk management company founded in 1982. Lindsey's background includes significant experience working in the Middle East and Southeast Asia a 15-year solid track record in the investigative, analytical, and operational fields.

Lindsey previously represented PICA as Senior Director of Research and Development from 2008 to 2010, before relaunching into the government sector. Her responsibilities included conducting high level due diligence, identifying strategic opportunities, and supporting the growth of PICA's cyber security platform. Lindsey graduated from the University of North Texas in 2001 with a BS in Criminal Justice and Psychology. She will be based in her home state in the Dallas office.

"I am blessed to have this opportunity to return to a company with such a strong reputation in the security sector and look forward to using the expertise I've acquired through both government work and my prior tenure with PICA to take our business to the next level," said Lindsey DeBord.

Vincent Volpi, CEO of PICA said, "We are delighted to have Lindsey "home" with us and to have her in a senior-level executive position poised for the next generation of leadership".